

An Apple A Day

written by John Grubb | April 17, 2021

I thought you might want to know that Apple has another live “event” scheduled for Tuesday, April 20, 2021 at 1:00 p.m. EDT. Wait! You’re a Windows 10 user, so why would you care about this? Because this online time of sharing what’s new is not about computers. As far as we know, Apple will probably be announcing its new versions of the iPad Pro and, maybe, the iPad Mini. I’m aware that many of you are iPad owners/users so you might find this of interest.

If you click on the play button above, you can set a reminder so you won’t miss what Apple will be sharing on Tuesday. Once we see exactly what the company is announcing, I’ll probably follow up with a post or two explaining what’s new.